

Socially Distanced Butterfly Bake Guidance

With government guidance about the pandemic constantly changing at the moment, we appreciate it can be difficult keeping up with what you can and can't do as well as how to stay safe if you are planning a Claire House Butterfly Bake in person.

It's important that you make sure your bake sale complies with social distancing guidelines. To avoid risks of transmission and stay as safe as possible, you should always maintain social distancing with people you do not live with – indoors and outdoors.

People are able to meet outdoors in a group of up to six people (including people not belonging to the same household), whilst observing social distancing guidelines and can socialise indoors with members of up to two households.

It's possible that social distancing rules may change over time so, closer to your bake sale, please check Government guidance on social distancing.

Face coverings can help us protect each other and reduce the spread of the disease if you are in an enclosed space where social distancing is difficult and where you will come into contact with people you do not normally meet.

It is advised that you should avoid exchanging items like money wherever possible. Where it is not possible, it's important for you and your guests to maintain good sanitation practices. This includes regularly washing hands for 20 seconds using hand sanitizer where soap and water isn't available. Good sanitation is particularly important when exchanging or sharing items such as serving utensils, money or even your tasty bakes!

For more guidance and support, please visit the UK Government's coronavirus website.